STORE CARDS.

The collection of Store Cards here catalogued is much larger than any that has been offered for many years, and in condition as a collection much superior to any that has ever before been sold; in the lot will be found fine examples of most of the cards of the 1837 period, together with many of the earlier and later issues; more than half the entire number are bright and uncirculated, and those in the second division—The Currency of the War—are nearly all perfect specimens and struck especially for collectors; the number is so great, that but few, comparatively, are specially mentioned; the collection contains some duplicates. For economy in space the following abbreviations are used: b. brass, c. copper, n. nickel, r. rubber, t. tin, or white metal, unc. uncirculated, (and it may be understood that many thus mentioned are really fine proofs, and in numerous instances brilliant proofs,) f. fine. With few exceptions it is not thought necessary to give the size, as nearly all in the first division are of the dimensions of the old red cent, say size 18.

712 Bushnell Collection. Catalogue: printed prices.

On the last page of the "prices realized, etc.," occurs this "stunning" paragraph: "The sale was very successful: the grand total being $13,900.47, which proves it to be the largest coin sale ever held in America, and it is by far the finest collection of American coins and medals only, that has been offered."

The first statement is in a measure true; the coins were purchased with the intention of adding the gems amongst them, to the collection of the owner; this was certainly successfully accomplished, but the "grand total" of the sale, if thereby is meant the money received from it was not $13,900.47, nor within thousands of dollars of that sum. It would in any sale be an easy matter to bid in at $650 a coin which would be dear at 75 cents, and thereby add immensely to what the cataloguers here call the "grand total"; this remark applies to many things in the auction which were not sold, hence did not add a cent to the receipts from the sale; and thus falls to the ground the claim that it was the largest coin sale ever held in America. It was not the largest or next to the largest, nor even the third reckoned by the results in money.

The last part of the statement is simply laughable and scarcely worth contradicting. The Bushnell Collection did not by any means consist of "American coins and medals only," and so far as being the finest collection offered, it would seem that the young gentlemen had never heard of Mr. Mickley, whose collection, after he had been robbed of many fine pieces, produced at auction and private sale nearly $17,000. Mr. McCoy, Mr. Lightbody, and Col. Cohen possessed collections which in fineness could hardly be surpassed, and two of them in completeness of series far surpassed the Bushnell Collection.

CONFEDERATE NOTES.

A collection noticeable for containing an unusually large proportion of the rarest varieties of these notes, the Montgomery and Richmond issues of 1861. The closing numbers have reference to Haseltine's Catalogue of Confederate Notes and Bonds, to which reference is made for more elaborate descriptions.

FIRST ISSUE, 1861. WRITTEN DATES.

724 $1000. Montgomery, letter A, No. 125; in the lower left hand corner, portrait of Calhoun, at the lower right Andrew Jackson; somewhat soiled and worn, still in good condition and most desirable; excessively rare; but one has been offered for years; it was cancelled by a cut and sold for $29. No. 1.

725 Photograph of the preceding from a perfect specimen.

726 $500, May 16. Montgomery, A.; 124. This note I understand, is the rarest of all the Confederate issues. I am unable to quote any price, as I can find no account of its sale: a Richmond dealer from whom I purchased a large amount of Confederate currency once showed me one which he declared he would not part with for its face value: this specimen is very fine, has been but little in use, and bears no mark of cancellation. 2.

727 The same, photographic copy, fine.

728 $100, May 16, Montgomery, A., uncirculated and clean: excessively rare. 3.

729 $50, May 16, Montgomery, A.: very fine and excessively rare. 5.

730 $100, Sept., Richmond, B.: perfectly clean and uncirculated: very rare. 4.

731 $50, Sept., Richmond, B.; cancelled with six small holes; otherwise fine: in good condition and very rare. 6.

ISSUE OF JULY 25, 1861.

732 $100, Richmond, C.: fine, scarce. 7.

733 $50, Richmond, C.: scarce. 8.

734 $20, Richmond; vignette, a ship: une., clean, scarce. 9.

735 $10, Vignette, female leaning on a shield; now very rare. 11.

736 $5, "5" in the centre; the edge a little injured, but fine and extremely rare. 12.

737 $5, "Five" across the left end, "V" in upper left corner, "5" in upper right: on the back "Confederate States of America" in blue: written date, fine and extremely rare. 13.

ISSUE OF SEPT. 2, 1861. WHITE BACKS.

738 $100, Sailor in lower left corner: fine, scarce. 14.

739 $50, Sailors in lower left corner: vignette, female seated by a strong box; very fine, scarce. 16.

740 $50, Davis in the centre: face printed partly in green; cancelled by two semi-circular cuts through the names, otherwise fine. 19.

741 $20, Vignette, Alex. H. Stephens; ends of the note and numerals XX in green: fine, very rare. 23.

742 $20, Three females in centre, Liberty to left, 20 and scroll work in green; cancelled by two clean cut circular holes, otherwise fine; extremely rare. 24.

743 $20, Vignette, ship; sailor to left; fine. 25.

744 $20, Stephens in lower left, Hope in upper right: fine. 21.

745 $20, Vignette, kneeling female figure with globe: Vulcan in lower right corner: "Southern Bank Note Co.": fine, and very rare. 29.

746 $10, Vignette, negro picking cotton; nearly fine. 30.

747 $10, Vignette, camp scene, Gen. Marion: fine. 31.

748 $10, B. Duncan's child in lower right corner: fine. 32.

749 $10, Vignette, group of Indians, female with trident in upper left corner: face partly in red: fine, very rare. 34.

750 $10, Vignette, team loaded with cotton: fine. 35.

751 $10, all different. 36, 38, 40, 40½. 4 notes.

752 $5, Group of females in the centre, Washington's statue in upper right; fine, rare. 42.

753 $5, Portrait of boy in lower left, machinist seated in lower right: Leggett, Keatinge & Ball, Richmond: fine, extremely rare. 44.

754 $5, all different; fine. 45, 49, 50, 52. 4 notes.

VARIOUS ISSUES, 1862.

755 $100, Sept. 20, Nov. 20, and one Jan. 6, 1863; all written dates. 55, 56. 3 notes.

TREASURE TROVE.

The following coins, thirty-one in number, constitute a find made in the spring of 1881, in Syria, near the village of Alma, between the cities of Tyre and St. Jean D'Acre, distant about three miles from the Mediterranean Sea. As far back as the year 1600 the French had a commercial establishment near the city of Sidon, and the building is still standing in good preservation.

All the pieces are in about the same condition: in the first place, rudely coined: all have been in circulation, and show bruises and other marks of use, but they are mostly in fair condition: all of the crowns and half crowns are of the United Provinces, Holland, Zealand, etc.; the obverse of each a knight standing supporting a shield, bearing a lion rampant; rev., the field of the coin occupied by a lion rampant, the inscription "Confidens dno non movetvr."

1228 Crown without date, of the Imperial City of Campen: one of the best in the lot.
